
Menu list unordered with two modules

Posted by johanjaimes - 2011/10/23 12:26

Hi there and first of all thanks for this great module!

I have two menu on my site, when the page is loading it shows it unordered (Image 1) and about 4 seconds after (When the loading is complete I guess) it shows it normally. This is on IE, FF, and Chrome.

Another thing is that, just on IE, when I pick one option on the main menu it loses its padding-left.

I am uploading screenshots and sending the files to your email.

Can you guys help me solving this problems?

Thank you very much in advance for your help.

I forgot to tell you that the site is under construction. Still not on Internet so I cannot provide a link. I already send you the files to your email.

Thank you very much for the quick reply. Hopefully the files in your email can help to see whats happening.

Once again thank you very much for your help.

Sorry, but screenshots can't help to investigate the problems. It can be a problem with site template styles.

Yes, but just the CSS. We already solved the problem using the Ari EXT Menu.

Thank you very much for your attention.

It seems template file was modified too because menu HTML code is not the same as original HTML code (it contains additional tags and some CSS classes are absent).
