
Setting Individual Width for Each Menu Item/LI

Posted by craad - 2010/07/28 00:08

Dear Sir,

I would like to set a different width for each individual menu item/LI in order to fill the menu bar - otherwise the space to the right appears empty. Basically I want the width of each top menu item to be larger so I can fill the space of the menu bar but I want each width to be different.

Where/how I can make these changes within the CSS?

My site is here.

Also, where can I adjust the line-height of the menu bar to fill the menu container?

Hello,

Download and upgrade the module, please. New version add the following CSS class to menu items: yui-menu-item

Where is menu item id. Use the following CSS rule that change line height of the container:

```
body .module #ariyui52.yui-skin-sam ul li a.yuimenubaritemlabel
{
    line-height: 34px;
```

Thank you. Could you be more specific about where exactly to add the class yui-menu-item to menu items? I will need to add a separate class to each menu item and then specify the width for each individual menu item within CSS. What would the code look like?

The following CSS rule can be used:

```
.yuimenubar .yui-menu-item
{
    width: 90px;
```

}

Where is menu item id which can be found in Joomla! menu manager. For example, if you want to set 100px width for 'home' menu item on your site, use the following CSS rule:

```
.yuimenuubar .yui-menu-item53
{
    width: 100px;
}
```

Dear Sir,

I have one more question. I am trying to left align the drop-down menu text and deeper (levels 2+). How do I do that while keeping the main horizontal navigation menu text center aligned?

Add the following CSS rule:

```
.module .yuimenuubar a.yuimenuitemlabel
{
    text-align: left;
}
```
