Conflict with ARIsexy lightbox

Posted by mythic_master - 2011/08/11 23:21

_____

There seems to be some sort of conflict that is preventing ARIslider from sliding.

It works fine when I use the module on articles which do not use the ARI sexy lightbox. However, when I embed the ARI sexy Lightbox script into even one article, the slider gets stuck and I cannot use any of the controls to move it.

The embed script I'm using is:
{arisexylightbox activeType="rcontent" width="640" height="480" url="http://www.mySampleurl.com" link="(click Here to preview in a floating window/lightbox)" title="HotNSexy Directory"}{/arisexylightbox}

Does this have anything to do with the jQuery settings of each module?

I have both modules jQuery set to 'No' only because I already have jQuery running for other modules and when I enable ARI's jQuery settings, it messes up (expands) my other accordian & drop down nav menus. This is the only reason i have ARI modules disabling jQuery.

Besides, they work fine with jQuery disabled - other than this conflict between the slider & lightbox.

============================================================================

Re:Conflict with ARIsexy lightbox

Posted by admin - 2011/08/12 04:43

_____

Hello,

Provide link to page please where we can see the problem.

Regards,
ARI Soft

============================================================================

Re:Conflict with ARIsexy lightbox

Posted by mythic_master - 2011/08/12 05:02

_____

This is the Link to the home page which is where the slider module is supposed to shuffle various articles.

I'm not sure what you can debug from the front end, but if you need to see my joomla module settings, I can either send you screen shots with the module settings info or please provide me with a direct email address where I can send you the access codes.

Thanks.

============================================================================

Re:Conflict with ARIsexy lightbox

Posted by admin - 2011/08/12 06:05

_____

It seems this problem with 3rd party extension which uses jQuery library. jQuery library is loaded several times on provided page. We can recommend to disable jQuery loading in all extension (ARI Slider, ARI Sexy Lightbox, JBolo and others) because it is loaded by site template and it is enough.

Regards,
ARI Soft

============================================================================

Re:Conflict with ARIsexy lightbox

Posted by mythic_master - 2011/08/12 10:36

_____

I double checked and it seems I already had JQuery disabled from all modules (ARI modules & jBolo). see attached screenshot.

Once jQuery is disabled, do the other settings matter? (i.e. jQuery noConflict)

I set jQuery noConflict to no on all ARI modules just in case.

Are you seeing any errors that indicate that jBolo is loading jQuery?

ARI slider is still frozen.

===========================================================================

Re:Conflict with ARIsexy lightbox
Posted by admin - 2011/08/12 10:43
_____

Nothing changes on provided page. Several jQuery instances are loaded. You can track javascript including with help FireBug addon for FireFox browser.

PS: If you wish, you can provide temporary access to your Joomla! backend by email and we will investigate the issue in more details.

Regards,
ARI Soft

===========================================================================

Re:Conflict with ARIsexy lightbox
Posted by mythic_master - 2011/08/12 15:37
_____

I used the email link you provided to send you the admin panel access codes.

===========================================================================

Re:Conflict with ARIsexy lightbox
Posted by mythic_master - 2011/08/15 15:56
_____

I've used Firebug to target the error, but I cannot match the error to any of my joomla modules.

All of the enabled modules (as well as disabled ones) which have a 'load jQuery' setting, have that setting disabled.
I must not be seeing a certain module.

I emailed you access to my admin panel.

Have you looked into this yet?

===========================================================================

Re:Conflict with ARIsexy lightbox
Posted by admin - 2011/08/16 15:16
_____

Clean browser's cache and try now please.

Regards,
ARI Soft

===========================================================================

Re:Conflict with ARIsexy lightbox

Posted by mythic_master - 2011/08/16 16:46

_____

It seems to be working fine now. Thank you so much for your support.

For my own reference, please tell me which module ('other menu') or what exactly was causing this error/conflict.

I would like to know so that I am more familiar with this template i am using and so I don't encounter this conflict again in the future.

========================================================================

Re:Conflict with ARIsexy lightbox

Posted by admin - 2011/08/16 18:13

_____

It was the problems with site template and JBolo extension.

Regards,
ARI Soft

========================================================================

Re:Conflict with ARIsexy lightbox

Posted by mythic_master - 2011/08/16 22:16

_____

I need your Help once again.

I switched some articles from one category to another and I also moved one category to another section.

After I did that, the error started again and the slider froze once again.

Please look into this.

========================================================================

Re:Conflict with ARIsexy lightbox

Posted by mythic_master - 2011/08/17 00:59

_____

I think I may have resolved the issue.

It seems to me that the alider may have a minor bug when the module is set to a category that does not have any articles.

I'm only assuming this because when I moved articles to another category/section, the section that was left with 0 articles was still selected in the ARIslider settings and that's when it started to freeze.

Once i deselected/removed the empty section from the module/article settings, the issue/bug vanished.

Just thought i'd report in case it could be an issue to resolve in the next upgrade.

========================================================================

Re:Conflict with ARIsexy lightbox

Posted by admin - 2011/08/17 05:58

_____

Thank you for your report. We will investigate the issue.

Regards,
ARI Soft

========================================================================