[Fixed] PHP 5.6 Deprecation Warnings
Posted by zydanielson - 2016/07/17 18:30

_____

In order to be up to date with the Akeeba Ticket System that I am using on my site, I had to upgrade my PHP to version 5.6. But when I did so, I started getting deprecation warnings on most of my backend pages. I am not sure how to fix this. Could someone give me a hand with this?

Hello,

Do you use the latest version of the extension?

Well, I don't know. Joomla says all my extensions are up-do-date. Is there something I have missed that I should have done?

The latest version of the extension is 1.11.7. It is available in "Member Area" on our site. You can check versions of installed extensions on "Extensions -> Manage -> Manage" page on Joomla! backend.

Thank you for this amazing support. I could hardly blink before you responded each time!

Okay, I have installed 1.11.7 and the warnings have gone away. My question is, do I also need to install the plugins? Or, now that the AriKernal (sp?) problem is fixed, should the plugins I have now work okay?

Okay. Will do.

Thank you again for this astonishing level of superb support. I can hardly believe it. I could not praise you enough for it!
