Popup doesn\'t center in IE8 and Firefox

Hi,

I'm having an issue with the plugin in IE8 and Firefox (but works in Chrome). If I am scrolled down the page at all when I click an image, then it pops up but centers itself off the bottom of the screen (so that only the top of the image can be seen). If I am at the top of the page (not scrolled down at all), then the images pop up and align correctly.

For example, go to this page, scroll down, and click on any of the six circular images near the bottom.

Is this an issue with the plugin or with something I'm doing?

Thanks for any help!

Hello,

This is a problem with site template styles. The plugin doesn't work due to the next CSS rules:

HTML, BODY {
  overflow-x: hidden;
  overflow-y: auto;
}

With the following CSS rules it will work:

HTML, BODY {
  overflow-x: inherit;
  overflow-y: inherit;
}

Hi,

I think I have this same problem with my site, except it's with Safari for Mac. Do I insert the aforementioned code into the template CSS code in my joomla administration, or do I insert the code within the code for the litebox plugin?

Thanks!

The map shown at the bottom of the main page has click-able links which utilize the plugin. The problem seems only to come up with mac users with safari- when using windows and safari, there is no problem.

It seems it works normally in all browsers (IE, Safari, Chrome, FireFox and Opera) in Windows. Unfortunately we can't test it on Mac.

Does sexylightbox use java script or some other third party application for it to work properly? I've had some say the shadow box works correctly with mac + safari and others that say it does not. Perhaps a simple update of a dependent application is needed?

_____

The lightbox uses jQuery plugin for creating lightbox.
