When building Questions can i categorize

I think the only problem here is that I have 1000 plus questions to ask, and I am hoping i am able to lump the questions in a group and then be able to upload that group of questions to the category. Or do i have to go through each individual question in the long list of questions i create to attatch to the different categories.... Does anyone have any clue what i am talking about?:) :)

Hello,

We have received the similar feature request and decided to include this functionality in release. Next week we are going to release the update which will contain processing content with mambots (this will allow to insert audio in the question text) and categories for question bank.

Regards,
ARI Soft
