Could you please describe more clearly what do you mean. Right now the username is displayed in quiz modules.

I mean the name of the user on the modules. By me there shows on frontpage the real name and not the username!
look at -deleted- down on the side there 2 ari quiz modules who show the real name and not the username

Could you please submit a feature request for this.

Most probably we will add such functionality next week. There will be drop-down to select whether to show real user name or userName in modules.

I'm running into the same issue. Is there a way to sort test results by login username instead of name (backend)? Without being able to sort by login name I cannot distribute test results to the right call centers.
