Hello,

The extension is compatible with Joomla! 3.2. Documentation is available in "Description" section on module section on module settings page.

PS: Set "Load jQuery method" parameter in module settings to "Local copy" value.

Hello ARI Support
Fist, thanks for your answer.
On the other hand and sorry for my little English but I am sure if I understood this topic

"Place each path to image folder on new line in 'Image path' textarea. Joomla! root directory will be used as root path for this folders. It means that if you want to show images from /images/slides folder, type in 'Image path' parameter the following value images/slides"

Since I am using a Joomla template named Lumiere for it and according the paragraph above, Should I create a folder named slides?
On the other and if my "images" folder path in my hosting is:

/www/templates/rt_lumiere/images

Should I add in "Image path" textarea this path?

"/www/templates/rt_lumiere/images/slides"

Hope you can understand what I try to say you.
Thanks and sorry for my little English....

If you want to show images from /templates/rt_lumiere/images/slides folder, set "Image path" parameter to the following value:

templates/rt_lumiere/images/slides

You can create several instances of the module and use different images path(s) and assign it to different module positions. You can read how to create module instances here.

The module is integrated with ARI Sexy Lightbox extension on our demo site to show images into the lightbox.

The module doesn't support integration with "ARI Sexy Lightbox Lite".

Hi again
I apologize for bothering you again but I duplicated the module to add other jpeg files and I modified the path text in this new one to another folder(for example slides1)and assign in Joomla this module to another place in my website but I got now the all the Jpeg files included in the folders slides and slides1 like two different carousels, for it, Could I do to eliminate the jpeg files of my original carousel mudule?
Thanks and sorry again

Hi again
Please do not worry about my last post.
I fix it
I did a mistake because I forget to deselect the new place in the original module
