
Cloud Carousel: How to Control Thumbnail Sizes?

Posted by booraroom - 2017/03/04 22:51

Hello,

First, thanks for this excellent and well working collection of plugins/modules.

I'm trying to use the Cloud Carousel (Smart Content version, which I purchased, downloaded and installed today -- version is 1.6.0 according to the "arismartcontent.xml" in the .zip file).

I configured it with responsive behaviour enabled.

Everything is working fine and as expected (including integration with the Sexy LightBox).

However, when I resize the browser (or examine the page on a mobile device), the entire carousel resizes down, including the thumbnails, to the point where it's very difficult to tell what's on the thumbnail images.

Is there a way to control the thumbnail size as it changes due to display size (perhaps relative to the carousel dimensions), so that:

- on computer displays, it can be more spread out (the way it looks now is fine, though IMO the thumbnails are a bit small)
- on smaller displays (tablet/mobile), the "ring" formed by the carousel gets narrower (smaller radius), but the thumbnails don't downsize as much, so the images remain reasonably visible?

I checked the carousel documentation, and I did some searching online, and couldn't find anything helpful on this topic.

You can take a look at the work-in-progress here :

If you resize your browser window once the page is loaded, you will see immediately what I'm referring to.

Thanks,

Hello,

Sorry, but currently the extension doesn't provide ability to change thumbnail size manually depends on screen size. It calculates thumbnail size automatically depends on carousel size which is defined in module settings and current screen width.

Hi,

Thanks for your prompt response.

Please consider this for a future enhancement.

In the mean time, I will see what I can do with manual CSS/HTML manipulation.

Thanks,
