Hello;
Thanks very much for your good modules; but I have 2 main problem with that when using Right to left state (with default parameters settings), Also Left to right seems to be OK. Because of Attachment's limitation, I post another Problem in the separate thread, So I would be appreciated if anybody could help me.

my problems:

1. Empty Space in vertical mode make sub-menu have more distance than its parent menu

(i attached site and its settings files too)
also i wrote my another problem in this thread:

http://www.ari-soft.com/ARI-YUI-Menu/15278-sub-menu-s-showing-adjustment-in-Horizental-mode.html#152791

again thanks very much

Copy: Dear sir;
Thanks again for reply soon but I think I explain my problem in simple and bright sentences; also this is default setting (and i didn't make any changes in the parameters setting). if you aren't sure about that, please test you module in a newly installed Joomla CMS, (as I tested it). Excuse me but I think this is a General question, and it isn't an specific case, (in fact each others might have the same problem).
How ever if i was sure that addressing could solve the problem i do but unfortunately my site isn't up! I think you certainly know that so many people may use this module but they haven't online site (site doesn't up in internet). So what would be done with them?!
excuse me but this problem is serious, please check, and i would be appreciated to showing a solution:
I use Joomla 1.5.23

Dear admin; Hello again,
I found out (among other forum's posts)that it seems just you might be able to solve the problem using direct view of website (and screen shot wouldn't be much useful).
so at this way I provided a link for direct preview the problem. you can use the link bellow:
Click Here to view
you will face the problem in second item ("joomla! overview")in vertical menu just at the right of the default joomla's template. (each sub-menu has empty space from its parent and it is far from its parent in menu).
However I think i explain the problem completely in previous posts;
even i test it by 3 major browsers: Chrome 11, IE 9, and Firefox 4, for increasing the accuracy.
So now if it might please help me about solving that.
Thanks;
With Regards.

Try to add the next CSS rules:

.yui-skin-sam .yuimenu .yuimenuitem
{
 position: relative;

.yui-skin-sam .yuimenu .yuimenu
 right: 0 !important;
 margin-right: 100%;

Dear admin;
Your did Great job!
That was exactly the thing I want. Thanks very very much! :cheer:
I tested it via 3 major browsers again (IE 9, Firefox 4, and Chrome 11).
All of them support the code. how ever it seems that the same result, unfortunately could not be achieved in IE 7. but in fact you solve it perfectly. and now a day I think few users use this version of browser. How ever I just want to point that.
Im sure that you would be able to solve again each the another alignment problem with your dramatic code! ;)
it seems that my another post in this forum (about horizontal menu) was solved.
(that I explain It there before http://www.ari-soft.com/ARI-YUI-Menu/15278-sub-menu-s-showing-adjustment-in-Horizental-mode.html#152791)
Again Thanks!

Add the next CSS rule:

.yui-skin-sam .yuimenu .yuimenuitem
{
 zoom: 1;

Perfect!
you solve it (Vertical mode), but unfortunately those code couldn't solve the horizontal menu issue too, I explain it in my last post in the bellow topic, It would be great if the horizontal menu adjustment works well such the vertical one.
How ever I wouldn't be wondered if your dramatic code be able to solve this problem again   ;)
So please review my last post in this link:
