Change backgroundcolor on submenus

Posted by norstar - 2010/08/31 07:14

The menu itself has a background image to all the menu items, but I want the submenus to have a white background. How do I do this? When I try to change in the safe_menu.css, it always affect the parent items.

I've attached the safe_menu.css.

The sites adress is: <http://95.211.7.20/~hollenbr/> http://www.ari-soft.com/images/fbfiles/files/safe\_menu.txt

Hello,

In what color do you want to display menu parent items?

All the parent items (menu items on top) have an image as background, to get the rounded corners. But I want all the drop down menu items to have a white background.

So all the menu items on top, have a background image, and all the drop down items are going to have a white background, not a background image.

When we open the page in a browser, we see sub-menu items with white background:

no, if you see closely, they have the same background image as the parent items, this gives them a litte blue line on top of each submenu item. I want the to have a solid white background. Is this possible?

Add the following CSS rules to safe_menu.css

---

{ $id } ul li li a.yuimenuitemlabel,
{ $id } ul li li a.yuimenuitemlabel:link,
{ $id } ul li li a.yuimenuitemlabel:hover,
{ $id } ul li li a.yuimenuitemlabel:visited
{
  background: #FFF none;
}
```

Hello,

You can try to use the following CSS rule:

.yui-skin-sam .bd .yuimenu .bd
{
  background-color: red !important;
```
