Horizontal menu to full page width

Posted by trooper - 2011/09/17 08:42

I've searched through this forum for existing help with customising a horizontal menu to make it stretch to full page width. Taking pointers from the posts I've found I've tried adding the following CSS, which hasn't made any difference to the menu width.

BODY DIV.ux-menu-container UL.ux-menu-horizontal ux-menu-link-first ux-menu-item-parent-pos0
  display: -moz-inline-stack;
  display: inline-block;
  zoom:1;
  *display: inline;

#ariext84_container .ux-menu-container .ux-menu LI.ux-menu-item-main
  width: 100%;

The site itself is here
http://www.cakepopcorner.co.uk/

I'd be very grateful for some assistance in getting the menu width changed to take up the full page width. That is, from where it is at present at the left, ending beneath the white logo image block at the top of the page.

With much appreciation in advance,
Jonathan

Hello,

Try to use the next CSS rules:

#ariext84 LI.ux-menu-item-level-0
 width: 113px !important;

UL#ariext84 LI.ux-menu-item541,
UL#ariext84 LI.ux-menu-item547
{
 width: 129px !important;
}

Got it.

Your question prompted me to think about the CSS file used. I had put your code into template.css but on closer examination I see that file's not imported in the page (?). Instead I moved the code into beez5.css, refreshed the page and all's good.

Thanks again! The quality of support from you guys is outstanding.

Hi Ari Support. I also am trying to get the horizontal menu to match my page width in order to eliminate unused space.

I have tried both snippets of code in this thread but nothing changes.

when i try the code from this thread http://www.ari-soft.com/ARI-Ext-Menu/19993-Can-Menu-scale-with-page.html my hor menu goes vertical .....

Did you just check now? because i was showing the client some templates.

If you will take a look now i will reactivate my template with the Ari Ext Menu.

Please advise

thanks you

Thank you very much that worked a charm.

I am having 3 more issues,

1) i want to get rid of the arrows and this code isnt doing it
#nav .ux-menu .ux-menu-arrow
 display: none;

2) the menu should be rounded but its showing up rectangular

3) the submenu items (lvl 3) appear with a very big gap from the lvl 2 submenu items

1. Use the next CSS rule:

#hornav .ux-menu-horizontal span.ux-menu-arrow
 display: none;
```

2. Information about menu HTML layout and CSS classes can be found here. You can use to customize menu design.

3. What's menu item contain lvl3 menu?

I've been studying the posts regarding horizontal menu to full width, but I don't understand some of the CSS solutions.

I'm seeing unfamiliar code, such as #ariext34, or #hornav. Do these refer to a site's specific template.css?

My site is here: ManagedAccountReview and the template is a highly customized version of an artisteer template.

I've got two menus, and would like them to fit nicely at 100% of page width.

It would also be nice if I can make the lower menu a slightly lighter or darker shade.

I'll appreciate any help.

Thanks!

Hello,

You can set width for specific menu items with help the next CSS rule:

LI.ux-menu-item
 width: 150px !important;
}

Where is menu item ID. For example if ID equals to 46, use the next CSS rule:

LI.ux-menu-item46
 width: 150px !important;

Menu items color can be configured in module settings. If you want to do additional customization, information from this post should be useful. It contains info about menu HTML layout.

Hello,

The extension doesn't support this ability, but it is possible to define specific width for all main menu items or specific width for specific menu item. Read our previous post please. It contains links to posts with description how to do it.
