Hello. This issue with template styles. Add the following CSS rule to template CSS file and it'll work: #header div#header_r overflow: visible; Regards, ARI Soft Re:does not work with Mozila firefox Posted by Lee - 2010/05/11 09:05 Worked a treat. Thank you for top notch support! Re:does not work with Mozila firefox Posted by chiefbobo - 2010/06/17 15:21 First. Thanks for your hard work to make this cool menu system. You guys rock! I'm having a similar issue with Firefox. Here's the URL of the site in progress: http://69.89.31.155/~hbadocco/ The entire content container below the ARIExt menu is shoved off to the right of the browser. The menu works great in Safari and Crome and IE. Just not in Firefox. I tried adding the CSS, #header div#header_r overflow: visible; to my site template CSS but it did not fix the issue. Not sure what to try next. Any help would be truly appreciated. And thanks for the great Joomla Component! Cheers, Randy Re:does not work with Mozila firefox Posted by admin - 2010/06/17 21:44 Try to add the following CSS rule to template CSS file: body #navbar a

| padding: 10px 12px;line-height: 1;height: auto;  |

| Hello,   |
| Maybe it was a problem with browser's cache.   |

I'm sure that I have cleaned all the cache, but now I seems running into IE7 problem. It didn't show text on the menu item and sometime it is missing 1 item. le8 work perfectly.
