
3rd level submenu no showing

Posted by MitchM - 2013/06/13 16:49

Hi, currently having an issue with the 3rd level of our submenu not showing in any browser. We are using our main menu (on the top) and also to be displayed in the left menu via ARI eXT Menu. In ARI we would like the 3rd level to show. Currently our config is set to start on level 2 and end on level 5, but we only get level 2 and not 3.

Example of what we want:

-Top Menu-

Menu Level 1 Menu Level 1
Menu Level 2 Menu Level 2
Menu Level 2 Menu Level 2

- Left Menu-

Menu Level 2
Menu Level 3
Menu Level 3
Menu Level 2

Example of what we get:

-Top Menu-

Menu Level 1 Menu Level 1
Menu Level 2 Menu Level 2
Menu Level 2 Menu Level 2

-Left Menu-

Menu Level 2
Menu Level 2

Any advice would be greatly appreciated,
Mitch

Here is the site we are working with: <http://184.154.224.11/~occhildr/index.php/community-priorities>

Here is what it should look like: <http://www.occhildrenandfamilies.com/CommunityPriorities.aspx>

Thanks.

This problem with site template styles. Add the following CSS rules to fix the problem:

BODY #Highlight ul li
  overflow: visible;
}

BODY #Highlight ul.ux-menu-sub li
  margin:0;

OK the 3rd level of menu know shows up but fly's out to the right instead of showing under the others. You can see it here, if you mouse over: <http://184.154.224.11/~occhildr/index.php/community-priorities>

Where can I make the change for these menus to show statically like this:
<http://www.occhildrenandfamilies.com/CommunityPriorities.aspx>.

Thank you.

"ARI Ext Menu" is a drop-down menu and you can see how it works on demo site.

OK thanks we were able to figure out the menu positioning. I was wondering if you could point me to the right area where we could correct the spacing between menu items (not sure if its a block or margin thing), and also if you could help recommend a way to change the line height so when the menu text wraps it isn't so crammed together.

Here is what we are working on: <http://184.154.224.11/~occhildr/index.php/community-impact>

Here is what we would like it to look like: <http://www.occhildrenandfamilies.com/CommunityImpact.aspx>

Thanks in advance.

This problem with custom CSS rules which are used for the menu. Add the following CSS rule to fix the problem:

UL.ux-menu-sub A

  margin: 0;

Thank you very much one last question: There is some type of space between the top level menu items and I'd like to decrease it so they stack up on each other instead of having space between them. Can you help with this? You can see it here: <http://184.154.224.11/~occhildr/index.php/about-us>

Hi and thanks again. You can see a sample here: <http://184.154.224.11/~occhildr/index.php/about-us>

We are trying to remove the space between the level 1 menu items. Currently there is no space between the level 2 menu items and this is what we would like. If you mouse over the menu you will see the empty space I am talking about. I assume we just have to remove the margin but unsure of the element we need to address.

Thank you

BODY #Highlight ul li

  margin: 0;
