I am having trouble with my ari image slider when using Internet Explorer 8. IN the attached screen shot you can see the images in the slideshow have shifted down by 5-10 pixels. This does not occur in Firefox or Chrome. Do you have a fix for this?

This is not a problem with our extension. This problem with site template styles for selected module position. You can use it and investigate the problem using "Developer Tools" for IE (press F12 in IE browser).

You can also contact site template developers so they fix the problem.
