Menu not ex tending to full width

Posted by wd5mush - 2013/06/25 18:18

_____

Hi,
I have just downloaded this extension and am trying to use it. When I position the module in most positions of my template it works fine. However, when it is located in the Menu position I only see the name of the module displayed. When I hover over it, all the level one items cascade as a muddled drop-down.

Note: I have left all the settings to default apart from Show Title which is set to off. (Which is why I am surprised it shows when located in the Menu position.)

Is this a problem someone has encountered before and can advise me on?

Thanks

Hello,

Where we can see the problem?

Hello, and thank you for your quick response.

If you visit http://www.watfordphilharmonic.co.uk you will see the existing menu on the home and other pages. Use the Testing menu link to view two demonstration pages Menu Test 1 and Menu Test 2.

In Menu Test 1 the ARI Ext menu has been assigned to the 'innertop' position, and in Menu Test 2, it is assigned to the Menu position.

I was hoping to replace the existing menu with the ARI Ex one as the existing one does not provide the accordion style nesting feature that is included in the ARI one.

I suspect the problem may lie in some sort of CSS conflict, but so far cannot spot it.

Any ideas?

It is not the module issue. It seems site template uses specific HTML and javascript code for selected module position.
