Pls add it as feature request or give some hint.

Sorry, but the module doesn't provide this possibility.

I have the same problem, many of my users are behind firewalls so Java is a no - no. I wonder if I delete the ariext java files from my server (so they are not loaded by the page) and then use CSS to position the menu items it might still work. Ariext would then be providing sub-menu links on every page but css would be managing the display.
I'll try it over the weekend and let you know
Richard
