Third level submenu position

Posted by malin - 2011/01/11 11:47

Hello,

The third level submenu is located a couple of pixels to the right of where it suppose to be. How can this be changed?

If I change the margin-left css the second level submenu is also affected which is not what I want.

Thank you so much!

The site is under development so can I send you the link in an email? Can you in that case provide the email address?

Thanks
Malin

Use the following CSS rules:

.ux-menu-sub LI LI
padding-left: 0;
}
```

```
.ux-menu-sub LI LI A
{
padding-left: 20px;
}
```

I have the same offset problem. I tried your CSS rules but it didn't worked out for me. I still have a few pixels offset to the left and top. Can you help?

Here is my Testsite:

Best regards.

Use the following CSS rules:

```
.ux-menu .ux-menu-sub .ux-menu-sub
{
margin: -1px 0 0 -2px;
}
```

Hello,

Add the following CSS rule:

```
#nav .ux-menu li ul ul
{
  margin: 0;
}
```
