
Question time and redirect

Posted by Sasso - 2009/10/31 22:18

Sorry for my continuous questions, but im a newbie in php and i'd to solve every problem.

This time ive seen a bug about th redirect when question time runs out. It redirect to a blank page.

No problem about total time.

Can it be a seo issue?

I've installed the new version and the language problem is solved! :)

But the redirect to the page blank remains.

Ok, but i've two questions.

1) When i update my version, i should delete the tables in the database before? Every time I make some quizzes, then I must delete them to install the new version?

1) How can i know when a new version is available? I don't see anything about the current version in this page:
<http://www.ari-soft.com/Joomla-Components/ARI-Quiz-Lite/Detailed-product-flyer.html> , so i cannot know when i should update.

Regarding your questions:

1) It isn't necessary delete tables. You can unistall the previous version and install new version through standard Joomla! installation page and all data remains untouched.

2) You can read our twitter page and news page that know about new releases.

Thank you very much for these information.

Unfortunately i get still a wrong redirect.

You can investigate this issue without problem because the component is open source.

Hi,

i had same problem so i didnt find any solution for that, but one thing can be done that is set complete quiz time but remove question time, leave the question time blank so your total quiz time will be considered not question time..
