Possible module or jQuery conflict

Posted by denverw - 2009/12/29 08:12

_____

I have recently installed mod_arislider and I can't get it to work. When I publish it either in an article or module position the page won't open. I am using mod_fancytabs which also uses jQuery so there maybe a conflict. I have tried the obvious (to an untrained eye) and this hasn't worked including unpublishing fancytabs.

Can anyone assist.

Many thanks
Denver :(

==

Re:Possible module or jQuery conflict

Posted by admin - 2009/12/29 08:14

_____

Hello,

Could you say link where we can see this issue?

Regards,
ARI Soft

==

Re:Possible module or jQuery conflict

Posted by denverw - 2009/12/29 08:26

_____

You can view the page that will not open at http://wilcoxwebdesign.com/Art_Hive/ then go to Ari Slider.

The page has an article that used to open. Ari Slider was published on module position 9. There are no other modules using the same position. The article has no modules inbedded.

Thanks
Denvre

==

Re:Possible module or jQuery conflict

Posted by admin - 2009/12/29 08:31

_____

It seems that PHP error occurs but you have set 'Display Error' option to none and this error appers only in error log. Could you check error log of web server which errors it contains? Or you can provide temporary access to your Joomla! backend by email and we'll investigate and fix this issue.

Regards,
ARI Soft

==

Re:Possible module or jQuery conflict

Posted by falknet - 2009/12/29 22:53

_____

Hello, ,I have the same bug too!
Nothing article was showed when I load them in the ITEM Section of MOD and your samples images , instead , breaks the overall page!
You can view the blank ARI slider at http://www.stefanopola.com/holiday/index.php?option=com_content&view=article&id=2&Itemid=8

If you need the access to backend admobnistration please felele free to ask me.

Help me please ..... ! :(:(

==

Re:Possible module or jQuery conflict
Posted by admin - 2009/12/29 23:33
_____

Hello,

Provide temporary credentianls for your Joomla! backend by email, please.

Regards,
ARI Soft

==

Re:Possible module or jQuery conflict
Posted by admin - 2009/12/30 13:58
_____

Hello falknet,

Check you mail, please. You don't see articles because you didn't choose images for slider items. Choose it and all should work fine.

Regards,
ARI Soft

==

Re:Possible module or jQuery conflict
Posted by uart - 2010/09/04 20:26
_____

I have the Same Problem when i activate it, it doesnt shows any article and the Menu Bar is blank.

==

Re:Possible module or jQuery conflict
Posted by admin - 2010/09/05 08:03
_____

Hello,

Is it possible could you provide temporary access to your Joomla! backend by email and say link to page where we can see this issue that we can investigate it.

Regards,
ARI Soft

==