Hi,

How can I show a list of active quizzes to the user?

I want to put this information into the article where I display the current quiz.

Many thanks, Mike.

Do you want to embed standard quizzes list page into an article?

Hi,

Yes please. I am using the plugin to show the quiz in the article. See previous thread in this forum yesterday which was not answered for details.

Thanks, Mike.

Hi

OK, sorted where the quiz list is. Noticed that when I set it up as a menu/module and then click a quiz link it opens the Quiz correctly formatted in my centre column.

This suggests that the formatting error in my article is to do with using the AROquizincontent plugin.

Any ideas, as the plugin does not have any CSS parameters?

Manu thanks, Mike.

Hi

Thanks for info.

Page formatting problem was in my other thread just before this one:

Hi,

Quiz works fine, but is not displaying correctly.

The quiz is trying to display across a full page of 960 pixels, but I only see just over half of it in my central column of about 500 pixels.

I see there is a CSS template. What change do I make to it to reduce the display width?

When I display the Statistics Page of all test results that fits fine.

Quiz here: www.medlink-uk.net/your-brain-gym

You need to register/login to see it, right hand column, Your Brain Gym.

Statistics page displays when you click 'Click here to view results'.

Many thanks, Mike.

Hi,

This is from: <http://www.medlink-uk.net/your-brain-gym>

Login in and do the quiz, Your Brain Gym, right menu.

This screenshot shows at the quiz end you can see the right hand borders. the blue is the edge of the middle column, but just displaying the results, or quiz list, but not in articles formats fine.

Thanks, Mike. http://www.ari-soft.com/images/fbfiles/images/quiz\_wrong\_format.png

This is not the plugin issue. This problem with site template styles for component view. It set minimal width to 960px. We can help to fix the problem if you provide temporary access to your J! backend by email.

Sorted, brilliant, thank you.

What change did you make so I can do it myself on a different site?

Many thanks, Mike.
