
ARI Quiz changing page layout

Posted by dr.alghamdi - 2009/11/09 10:41

I have a problem which appears to arise from the ARI Quiz when put in a content article.

The problem is that the modules appear within the main content area when the ARI quiz is in content and when it is removed the modules returns to the normal position.

The strange thing is that the same page is in the front page and the problem doesn't occur there.

This the link to the problem page:

http://www.radiology2.com/index.php?option=com_content&view=article&id=6:osce1&catid=6:musculoskeletal&Itemid=39
and this to the front page:

<http://www.radiology2.com>

Any suggestions?

Thank you.

Hello,

If you open source of your page, you can see that your article contains ill-formed HTML code. Fix it or provide temporary access to your Joomla! backend by email (info@ari-soft.com) and we can help you.

I have cleaned the code and even removed every thing except for the ari quiz plugin and the problem is still there.

Best regards

Your page contains javascript errors. Try to set 'jQuery noConflict' option to 'Yes' in plugin settings.

I'm having the same problems:

I have tried Yes/No on jQuery option and also my templates "Enable JS Compatibility". Template is SolarSentinel from Rockettheme.
