Is it possible? Can you inform me how to accomplish?

Thank you,

Hello,

You can modify the error message and a link to a registration page to the message. You can read how to edit messages here.

It is also possible to modify \components\com_ariquiz\views\quiz\tmpl\default.php template file and a link to the template file.

I follow the link that was provided an I am not able to understand how to link to a registration page. All of the quizzes are for registered subscribers only. When I choose to allow guest to take the test the "name and email address boxes appear but when filled out nothing happens. I could provide a link for every quiz on the page but I would like the error message to take the user directly to the registration page.   How can this be easily accomplished?

Thank you

"You do not have persmissions to take this quiz" message appears when non-registered user try to get access to a quiz which is available only for registered users. You can modify the error message and a link to a registration page. You can read how to modify messages by the link which we provided in our previous post (it can be done with help of "Localise" extension or you can edit language INI file manually, if you send a link to a registration page and a temporary access to your J! backend by email, we can modify it for you).

Where else should I look?

The Ini file is not located in the file you described.   Where else could it be located.   I provide admin access to the website. please take a look and make the changes or let me know another possible location of the file.

Read email which we sent. We don't have permissions to edit INI file through eXtplorer or NinjaExplorer extension. Login by FTP and modify INI file in way which we described in email. Joomla! stores all INI file for frontend part of components in /language/en-GB/ folder. "ARI Quiz" uses /language/en-GB/en-GB.com_ariquiz.ini file.
