
Ability to 'bulk add' questions to a quiz?

Posted by ivanjones - 2008/11/09 16:59

This is what I've done so far...

I've created a Quiz "Mock exam"

I've created a Question Bank, of 50 question or so.

Now, what I'm trying to do is add all the questions I've created to my Quiz. It seems I have to do that manually, one-by-one by going to "Quizzes" -> Questions View -> Question List (Add) -> Then, clicking on "Change" in the Question Bank Based field, where I then have to select a Category and then select my question from the list (!!)

Seems very long winded! Is there anywhere I can just see a list off all my questions and tick which ones I want to include in my quiz?

Apologies if I've missed this somewhere, but I have looked hard for the answer...

Thanks

=====

Re:Ability to 'bulk add' questions to a quiz?

Posted by admin - 2008/11/09 18:54

Question bank is used when you are going to reuse questions - to use them in different quizzes.

If you are going to use questions in single quiz you should create the questions not in question bank but directly in a quiz. This will be much faster.

Anyway this is good idea to add bunch of questions from bank to quiz. We will think of adding this feature in one of future releases.

Regards,
ARI Soft

=====