Hi

I have a presale question for your Ari Quizz component

Is this possible to show online results while a group is completing a quizz.

I.E in the class room i have 5 persons answering the quizz on their pc, and i can show on my screen the global statistics and/or the personal statistics for each person.

Thank you!

regards

Miran

Hello,

Could you describe in more details what statistics do you want to show?

Hi

I just wanted to show to persons who are completing the quizz how many good/bad answers (percent or numbers/total) each participant has given.

But i would like to have this feature in real time and not after the end of the quizz.

We can create a module which will show users and number of correctly and incorrectly answers for each quiz taker for completed and currently running quiz sessions. Is it suitable?

hi again

Thank you for your quick answers!

I guess yes. it looks like suitable.

I let you some more explanations:

During my lessons, i give some quizzes to my students and they answer to it. What i would like to do is quite simple:

option1- everyone is doing the test to his own speed, but on my screen i can see for each one the progression of the test and check in realtime the percentage and/or the number of good and bad answers option2- we answer the questions at the same time. i ask the question and everyone answers. Then we can see on my screen the results up to this moment. maybe a classment of the participant also...

The purpose of this feature is to create some emulation between the students.

This sounds really interesting and something that I would not mind using if possible.

What would be a great mod, would be if you could pull up charts for each question in a quiz, showing the average user score, per question. This could then be used from a teaching point of view to identify areas of weakness etc.

I guess going one step further, it would be great if the user when logging in, could have some area where they could see all of the quizzes that they have attempted, with maybe a chart / table showing their progress in each of the tests, if they have taken it more than once. I guess going further being able to look back at which questions they got right and wrong and maybe how their results compare to everyone elses.

Maybe this is asking for stuff that is way too complex. I do love the mod it has to be said.
