
Problems to insert a javascript applet in a Quiz

Posted by pquagliotto - 2017/02/28 22:01

Dear Sirs,

I am working on the set-up a series of Organic chemistry related quizzes for my site.

I prepared in the last year several exercises for my students but I always had a problem, since I could not show the answer as a graphic object (an organic chemical formula) in the explanation section of the quiz. This is of the outmost importance since the students are asked to draw the correct chemical product that is the outcome of a reaction. Until now, I only had to support personally my students, if it was not clear to them what the correct answer was. Now, It's time to prepare quizzes for everyone in the Internet, who will use my site. I am using the javascript JSME applet, which works fine in the Quiz section, while it is impossible to show in the explanation section.

After having tried everything, I would ask you some advice on the source of this problem.

My site could be taken on your part as "living demo" on the use for teaching Organic Chemistry.

If you need I have examples to be used as a registered user. I will send access credentials, at your request.

Please let me know what to do.

Best regards,

Pierluigi Quagliotto

Hello,

Could you specify what HTML/javascript code you use in an explanation so we can reproduce the problem on our test server? You can send it by email.

I just sent you an e-mail with some general explanation, the address of a developing site from which you can see what should be obtained and the behavior I could obtain in ARI-Quiz. The full code is included at the bottom of the e-mail

Many thanks for your effort in helping me!

Best regards,

Dear Sirs,

Did you have time to investigate the problem? Do you need some more information (e.g. other modules, plugins, installed) ?

Please let me know.

Best regards,

Pierluigi Quagliotto

Sorry for the delay. This custom integration is out of free support, if you have a technical knowledge and want to implement integration with JSME we can help with technical questions.
