
Quiz Template and Results Print Questions

Posted by militosconsulting - 2017/07/14 15:22

Hi,

1. I have a quiz in which all the questions are displayed in one page.

Why the progress bar is still visible ? I think in the "All questions in one page" option is useless.

2. When I finish a quiz I need all the results to be printed

When I do not have a print template, There is no print button.

But when I set a print template then I get the results with a print button,

I click on the print button and what I get is the same page with the print button and the results again.

The I click the print button again and this 2nd time I click it I get the print dialog box.

Is there any way to make this results printing more simple with the need to press only once the print button ?

Thank you

Hello,

1. We will improve it in the next version of the extension.

2. When print button is pressed on quiz results page then a new page based on "Print" template which is selected in quiz settings are shown. It can differ from main template so it is shown before user prints it.

Hi,

Thank you for your answer.

So there is no a simple way to do it ?

I do not need a different print template. I only want to print the results I see without need to write something to a print template.

Thank you

Hello,

Update the extension to v. 3.9.10. It calls print dialog immediately when "Print" button is clicked, add "aq-one-page-quiz" CSS class to container element for quiz session when all questions are shown on a page. The following CSS rules can be added (for example to a site template CSS file) to hide progress bar:

```
.aq-one-page-quiz .aq-status-panel {display: none;}
```

Well,

I click on print button,
I get the print dialog but in the preview I have the "Loading..." forever

Chrome

I do not know if it matters but the quiz is displayed within the content using the plugin.

Thank you

Upgrade the component to v. 3.9.11. It should fix the problem with "Loading" label in print page.
