
Page break in quiz description

Posted by boogers - 2017/08/30 01:54

Hi.

I used the search forum at the top of the page and didn't get any hits. May not be calling it the right thing.

Basically, what I'm setting up is a simple course using ARI Quiz. Before the quiz can be taken the visitor must read a couple pages of info. The visitor should not be able to move ahead to the quiz before reading (or at least clicking through) the information.

I figured the best way to accomplish this with what I already have is to include the pages inside of the quiz description box and use page breaks with the last page being where they can actually start the quiz.

Page breaks just show up as hr with no next/previous button and all text from description box on one page.

Suggestions or feedback on if this is possible would be appreciated.

Thanks in advance.

=====

Re:Page break in quiz description

Posted by admin - 2017/08/30 07:54

Hello,

The extension doesn't support ability to split quiz description into several pages. As possible solution, multi-pages description can be placed into an article and a button or a link to a quiz will be placed on last description page. The quiz can be configured to start immediately without description page. For this open "Access & Security" tab on quiz settings page and enable "Start immediately" parameter. Link to a quiz looks like:

`index.php?option=com_ariquiz&view=quiz&quizId=QUIZID`

Where QUIZID is quiz ID. For example for quiz with ID = 5, the link is:

`index.php?option=com_ariquiz&view=quiz&quizId=5`

Regards,
ARI Soft

=====