Show wrong or right answers in the progress bar

Hi.

I want the user to be able to see if his answer was right or wrong, but I don't like the way "Show the correct answer" button works, or maybe I don't quite understand how it works: it shows the right answer before user has submitted his answer. That's not what I need. I need the user to answer the question and see if the answer was wrong with no chance to change the answer.

So is there any way to make some kind of a progress bar, where right or wrong answers are shown with the color (or an icon) during the quiz?

Hello,

The extension provides two options: "Show correct answers" and "Show explanation". The first option is used to enable ability show correct answers before submitting answers like a training mode. The second option is used to show explanation with correct answers when answer are submitted.
