
Transferring a Quiz from development to production

Posted by jamijares - 2010/11/12 19:49

I am developing a couple of quizzes in a development server
and I am about to finish testing them

How do I transfer the quizzes to the Internet production server?

I mean which site files, CSS styles and DB files(tables) do I need to copy in order to be complete and dont miss anything.

Thank you in advance for the reply

You can install the component on production server and restore all SQL tables from development server with prefix
"jos_ari".

Thank you for your extra quick reply

What about styles?

If I have made changes to font colors, sizes and added images which are the files (and locations) I must add besides the native component files?

Have you created "CSS Template" on the component backend or modified original component files?
