
Problem on centering pagelayout; slow Slideload

Posted by wvds - 2017/02/24 22:05

Hi,

Issue-1:

I want the Layer Slider to be centered on a page-layout, width: appr. 700px, showing images 550x350px. However the Slider keeps to be left-aligned.

- I tried center-aligning `{arilayerslider id="1" comment="gereedschap"}{/arilayerslider}` in the texteditor; it does not do the job.

- I then tried displaying the images on a 700pxs-background: doing so, there are no 75px-wide area's to the left/right of the img; instead the 550x350px-imgs get displayed to a width of 700pxs.

What do I do to get the Slider centered on the page?

Issue-2:

-on opening/refreshing a page the Slider seems to load quite slowly

Hello,

1. The problem that is used to add `text-align` CSS property to wrap the slider. The slider uses `div` element as container and according to HTML standard it is not possible to use `div` element (block elements) inside

`div` tag. As result browsers renders

`div` and `img` tags separately, you can see it in browser's developer tool:

The possible solutions:

1. Wrap the slider with `div` element instead of or

2. Add the following CSS rule to a site template CSS file and clean browser's cache:

```
.xslider {margin:0 auto}

2. We will check it.

Hi,

I managed to put in the css to center the slideshow on pages; yet another problem arises:

â€œ the css on the topmenu gets distored: first + second level menu

Hello,

The problem occurs because the site template uses MooTools javascript library for the menu (BTW Joomla! team are removing MooTools dependencies from Joomla! code) and "ARI Layer Slider" doesn't work with MooTools library.

I feel a bit disappointed; i have been re-reading the specs on the layerslider again and again, page:

http://www.demo2.ari-soft.com/joomla-layer-slider.html?_

yet i cannot find any warning on the layerslider having a restriction regarding mootools.

I purchased the layersider to apply it in some existing websites needing a responsive imageslider, yet i find it is not useable.
