
Send results by email?

Posted by AlignToDivineHealth - 2017/07/14 02:45

When someone enters their email address to get the results from their quiz, is there a way I can email them the exact results that they got?

I'm linked to Aweber and have it set up to send them an email. Just not sure how to send them their results?

My quiz gives them 7 personality results with different info for each one that I would like them to have.

Here is a link to the quiz if you need to see what I'm talking about with the results: <http://spiritualyouuniversity.com/chakra-quiz/>

Thanks!

Hello,

Sorry, but currently the plugin doesn't send results by email to quiz takers. It is possible to show results at the end of a quiz and results are available for administrator on backend part of the plugin.

PS: We will add this feature in a future version of the extension.

Is there an ETA on being able to send results by email please? I didn't realise this wasn't the case and either need to start again with new software or hold off on launch until it is available. Thanks so much

Thank you - will the email display exactly the information that is on the results page? For example the full details of the first result and the scores only for the remaining?

What is Ari Quiz Pro? You promised to implement the functionality in the Wordpress plugin we already bought now you talk about buying a new plugin? Perhaps having too many products makes it impossible to continue to develop as your competitors does but I have never experienced anyone promesing something within a month, then extending the deadline and finally suggesting a whole other product?

A bit upset customer,
Thomas

Check that version 1.5.4 is installed on your site. After this open quiz settings page, select "Settings" tab and find "Send results by email" checkbox at the bottom of the page:

Re:Send results by email?

I ran through a quiz to see what the emailed results would look like. I think I must be overlooking something.

1) The email came from wordpress@mysite.com and I don't have that email address set up in my website so I couldn't reply to it or it came back undeliverable

2) The email was all with the html coding so couldn't really read it

I looked around to see if there were some settings to change somewhere but I didn't see any.

1. The plugin uses WordPress API to send mail (wp_mail function) and it uses wordpress@mysite.com as from email by default. We can add new parameters to plugin settings ("E-mail from" and "From name"). Is it suitable for your needs?

2. Could you provide a screenshot and/or re-send a problem mail to our email?

ARI Soft

In regards to this note on the Quiz Settings page: "Note: only data for main personality can be used. "

Does this mean if you have a quiz that displays multiple results at the end, that the system will only email the first "personality" result? I am working in a test site that does not have email functionality on it yet, so I am unable to test to see the result of the new email feature.

Re:Send results by email?

Posted by mrswisesturt - 2017/10/13 15:47

Ah I need all results emailed too - just the details for the main one is fine but I would actually need the rest of them included with the score next to them, exactly what they see on the screen when they have completed the quiz

Re:Send results by email?

Posted by admin - 2017/10/13 17:50

Currently only main personality is included into mail.

Re:Send results by email?

Any plans to update to include the score for all - because otherwise even after waiting a couple of months for this I'm still going to have to find something else to use! Isn't it easy enough to replicate the results that people see on screen to include it in the email?

Re:Send results by email?

We updated the plugin to v. 1.5.6. It supports ability to use {$summary} predefined variable in mail template. It contains a summary for personality quizzes like on quiz results page.

Re:Send results by email?

Posted by mrswisesturt - 2017/10/16 13:20

Thank you! We are so close :)

The only thing now is that I have the image and content for my main personality which is great. But then when I add the Summary the other personalities are shown with just their results number (which is perfect) but the main personality is also included in this summary and it repeats the image and the content. Is there a way to show just the REST of the results in the summary and not include the main personality in the summary?

Thanks so much!

Re:Send results by email?

I am hoping to display the summary for all personalities, not just the main personality. Is this possible?

Re:Send results by email?

To mrswisesturt: we will add {$summary_secondary} variable to the next version. It will contain all personalities except the main personality.

To cwildenberg: the latest version of the plugins can include several personalities into mail like on quiz results page.
