Quiz sometimes becomes translucent

Hi, it happens pretty rarely, but when I load any quiz, then it fully becomes translucent. Translucency disappears, when I reload a page. No console errors are shown during that. And quiz can be played during that.

Please note, that I moved your plugin's .js files to body, and your .css file is opened in head, but in async mode (to speed up my website).

Here is a screenshot, how it looks: <https://ibb.co/PGx8fqF>

Here is one of my quizzes: <https://litfan.ru/testy/test-na-pisatelskie-sposobnosti/>

What could possibly bring this bug?

Thanks in advance for an answer!

Hello,

Could you specify exact steps how to reproduce the problems? What browser do you use?

I just sometimes visit one of my quizzes on PC (Google Chrome browser), and it can become translucent. I am pretty sure, that it happens on mobile devices too.

I have a feeling, that it can be related to slow internet connection. So the quiz doesn't load fully and it's shown like that. Is it possible?

We checked this quiz in Google Chrome on MacOS and emulate slow connection (settings in "DevTools -> Network" tab) and can't reproduce this problem. We reload the page with the quiz several times. Does this problem occur for this quiz? We will check it also in another browsers.

This problem definitely occurs for this quiz, because I made the screenshot above on that page. It wasn't planned - I was able to catch this moment by accident, and decided to show it to you.

I am pretty sure, that it happens on all my quizzes, and on all devices. But it's rare.

Through analytics I watched video visits of my website in the past, and saw translucency happen to other users too from time to time.

I've just was able to reproduce the problem by an accident. So I understood, what caused translucency. It's because of this rule:

.asq-theme.asq-theme-buzzfeed .quiz-page.current { animation: fade .5s linear;

For some reason, faded effect doesn't go away in rare cases, when quiz is already loaded. After I turned off / on this rule in Dev Console, then my quiz became normal.

Do you know, how to fix this problem?
